Happenings of a Local and Personal Nature.

Mrs. Flora Lathem has been re-elected as one of the teachers in the Central graded school in Greenville.

Mr. Sullivan of Columbia, came up this week and assisted his son-in-law, D. B. Cooper, to take stock for Ashmore & Nimmons.

Otis Keith, after a sojourn of a week in Atlanta decided that life was too strenuous in that city and returned to Pickens singing, "There is no place like home."

While attending the meeting at Cross Roads last Thursday Miss Mary A. Taylor, Baptist Home Missionary of Greenville, had the misfortune of having her ankle dislocated. The injury though not serious was painful.

W. E. Freeman & Co. have built up a good trade since they have opened up, and are buying largely for their fall and winter customers whom they expect to trade long, lots and often. They make a specialty of their grocery department and have it well stocked and are selling at very reasonable prices.

Messrs. Folger, Thornley & Co., have had an unusually good trade this year and are buying heavily for fall and winter. They expect this year's business to be their biggest and best year, and will do all in their power to make it so. They make a run on high grade shoes, especially the "Walkover," which they are advertising this week. They are also agent for the International Tailoring Company and if you want to measure suit step in and leave your order.

Miss Jennie Blessingame that beautiful and charming young lady the erstwhile milliner of W. E. Freeman & Co., visited Mr. and Mrs. Dick Jennings last week.

L. Rothschild, Greenville's popular clothier and tailor, is making a run on straw hats, and at the reduced price he is selling them at it will pay you to purchase and keep until next season.

Very soon, now, the young folks of the town and county, both ladies and gentlemen, will soon be leaving for to resume their college work. When those of the town leave the ranks of the younger society set will be greatly reduced.

Court Stenographer, M. C. Long, of the tenth circuit, spent a few days in Pickens this week renewing old acquaintances and making new friends. He is an avowed candidate for solicitor of this circuit and is a lawyer of no mean ability, being able to discharge the duties of the office with fearlessness and dispatch.

Ashmore & Nimmons, the new firm unfurl their mercantile banner to the breeze this week. They have bought the stocks of goods of J. F. Harris and D. B. Cooper, both of whose goods are all right, clean and fresh; to this they have added new goods which are coming in every day. They have one of the prettiest storerooms to be found anywhere and have arranged their goods mighty tastily. They are both well known to the public, are honest and good salesmen, and all business fellows and cannot help but succeed.

J. McD. Bruce is erecting two cottages on his lots near the cotton mill on the Helder's Ford road. When completed they will be for rent.

J. N. Hallum, manager of the Pickens Drug Co., is always looking out for some new novelty to place on the market; some new style to arrange his stock in which to make it catchy and pleasing to the eye, some new thing to draw trade. His store presents an attractive appearance at all times and has a good run of custom, which steadily increases as the weeks roll by. His stock of school stationery, supplies and books is complete and he asks your consideration of the good he offers. See ad in this issue.

When it comes to groceries Moore & Mauldin have the trade "skinted a block." They go down after facts and tell them in a straightforward way; they do not slop over with highflown generalities or long strings of rhetorical words about their stock; they simply preach "quality and purity" and show wherein their goods are pure and have the necessary qualities to make them first class and all right. See their ad and profit from reading it. Such ads as they get up will certainly prove trade winners.

The Henth Bruce-Morrow Co., who have had a phenomenally good trade this year, are making greater efforts to have a larger, better and more varied stock than ever before, for their ever increasing list of customers to select from. They are paying particular attention to their department for the ladies, and their line of shoes, hats, millinery, dress goods and all such things as go to make a maiden more charming, will contain more and prettier stuff this season than ever before, and the price will be commensurate with the quality of the goods.
